Board Of Education Adopts Junior H. S.

High School Cannot Hold Out Another Year Against Heavy Increases.

UNION SYSTEM GAINS FAVOR

Principal Declares, After Eastern Study, District Plan Is Inefficient.

Appleton board of education in a special meeting at the high school Friday night voted in favor of adopting the junior high school system and resolved that immediate steps be taken toward establishing such. The seven members present voted unanimously. This action was taken at the close of a three hour session.

The resolution was formulated and the vote taken after Leo C. Rasey, high school principal, had told the board of his work at Columbia university this summer in which he devoted intensive study to junior high school organization and school administration. Mr. Rasey closed his talk by urging the board to take such action as would push the issue of $500,000 bonds to establish two junior high schools and have them ready for occupancy by the fall of 1923.

Right in line with the junior high school project, Mr. Rasey suggested that a union school system be established here and the district school system be abolished. He said a unified school system would be more efficient and more economical than the present divided system.

Teachers Added

In reviewing the need for establishing junior high schools or making some other provision to care for increasing high school enrollment, Mr. Rasey told the board that 855 students are enrolled in the high school this year although last year it was thought that the maximum capacity of the building could not exceed 820. There were 35 high school teachers last year he said. This year there are only 32. Last year there was one teacher for every 20 pupils. The same ratio this year would indicate that there should be 43 teachers.

He pointed out that if the board would hire one more teacher it would still be saving ten teachers' salaries proportionately or between $15,000 and $20,000. One more teacher, he said, would make a ratio of one teacher to every 26 students. The upper classes are taken care of but there are not enough teachers for the freshmen, sophomore and junior classes. He also had the opportunity of getting expert advice from Prof. Briggs, head of the department of high school education of the university, and Prof. Englehart, head of the school administration division.

As a result of information gained from these sources, Mr. Rasey favors two junior high schools here. He said that two schools would mean less distance for the children to walk and that one school would have to draw from too large a territory to make it practical anywhere but in congested cities. Beloit, he said, is building two junior high schools.

Would Reduce Situation

The overcrowded condition of the high school was stressed as a condition which would have to be remedied very soon and junior high schools would offer a very practical and logical way of doing so. The total enrollment in the high school this year will be 900 students, Mr. Rasey estimates.

He said greater attendance is due to the new state law which requires half time attendance of children up to the age of 16. This, he said, practically meant whole time attendance for all such children. Hard times and lack of profitable work for young people was also given as a condition which tends to increase school enrollment.

In showing future needs, Mr. Rasey said that if the increase in attendance (Continued on Page 10)

CHICAGO BRAKEMAN HELD AS SUSPECT IN MURDER CASE

Body of Salesman Is Found Floating in River After Brutal Killing.

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Ill.—Harvey W. Church, railroad brakeman was being held by police Saturday in connection with the murder of Bernard J. Daugherty, automobile salesman, whose body was found floating in the Desplaines river at Maywood yesterday. Church was taken into custody at Adams, after an all day hunt. Carl Ausmus, Daugherty's companion was still missing.

Church, who purchased an automobile from Daugherty refused to explain the presence of bloodstained clothing and a bloody hammer which were found in the basement of his home here. He admitted having purchased the machine and said that he paid $5,000 to Daugherty in cash. He was driving the machine when arrested.

A bloodstained hat, said to be the property of Ausmus also was found in the basement of Church's Chicago residence.

Daugherty came to Chicago from Boston some months ago and joined the sales staff of the Packard Automobile company. His home formerly was in St. Paul, Minn., where his father, Patrick Daugherty and two sisters still live. His brother, the Rev. Michael Daugherty lives in North Dakota. Bernard was a captain in the tank corps during the war.

Ausmus, also an ex-soldier, came to Chicago from Bloomington, Ill.

Miss Anna Barrett, said to be Church's fiancée was questioned by police early Saturday. She and her father were quizzed for some time and then allowed to leave.

Chicago, Ill.—The body of Carl Ausmus, employee of the Packard Automobile company, who was with Bernard J. Daugherty, at the time the latter was slain, was found buried this afternoon under the floor of a garage at the rear of the home of Harvey W. Church. Church was arrested in Adams, Wis. last night, and now is being returned to Chicago.

"Steady Ralph" Is All Madalynne Desires Now

By United Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles, Calif.—Madalynne Obenchain Saturday announced she had cut aside every one except her divorced husband in her fight against the charge of murdering J. Belton Kennedy, wealthy broker.

Ralph Obenchain, her former husband, is now regarded by Madalynne as "steady Ralph," the man in a million," she said in an interview.

He is a lawyer and will defend her in court. She has discharged Paul Schenck, noted criminal lawyer. Furthermore, she stated she would refuse to go to trial jointly with Arthur Burch, indicted with her for the murder.

"Burch had no more to do with the death of Kennedy than I had," Madalynne said.

She reiterated her story that Kennedy dropped dead at her side on the steps of his Beverly Glen bungalow following a shot from the darkness.

"Burch and I have no defense in common. He will have to paddle his own canoe. But he will be acquitted," she said.

"I know Burch did not kill Kennedy but I know that he did not kill him."

"I am afraid I have harmed Burch by my silence. This has led to an impression that I was shielding him. This is untrue."

"I still maintain I saw two men in Beverly Glen the night of Kennedy's death and I am sure when Burch comes to trial he can prove he was not one of them."

She predicted that Burch, after acquittal, would become reconciled with his former wife in Lawrence, Kansas.

FIND MOTIVE FOR DOUBLE MURDER

Missing Cash and Bonds May Explain Cause for Mysterious Hoyer Murder.

Port Washington, Wis.—Between $10,000 and $15,000 in cash and bonds are apparently missing from the Moritz Hoyer farm home, which was the scene of the killing of Hoyer and his wife September 1, according to Peter Huiras, district attorney of Ozaukee county.

A thorough search of the home yesterday failed to reveal the cash and securities Hoyer was known to have possessed.

"We shall make another search today but it looks to me as if the cash and securities had been stolen," Huiras said.

The authorities previously had covered $10,000 in liberty bonds concealed at the house.

The suspected robbery will furnish a motive for the murder of Hoyer and his wife and the wounding of Emily Hoyer 19 year old daughter, authorities said.

A finger print expert has been conducting an investigation at the home. Finger prints made by the alleged bandits, have been found and authorities believe may furnish information necessary in running down the two lawless.

WILL HEAR VIEWS ON DISARMAMENT

American Delegates to International Conference Plan Exchange of Views.

By A. L. Bradford
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—Preliminary conferences of the American delegates to the disarmament conference will start here soon, it was learned Saturday.

The office of Secretary of State Hughes, the chairman of the American delegation from now on, will be the scene of frequent conferences of members of this country's delegation.

The announcement by President Harding of the complete personnel of the American delegation—Secretary Hughes, chairman, former Secretary of State Elihu Root, Senator Lodge, Republican senate leader and chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and Senator Oscar Underwood, Democratic leader in the senate—was well received.

Harding, it was learned, plans to leave much of the work of preparations of the conference to Hughes.

Consideration now is being given to the selection of 12 principal advisers to the main delegation. In this group will be military, naval and economic experts as well as a prominent woman, an outstanding ex-service man and representatives of labor and the farmers.

Elihu Root is regarded as the most experienced American statesman in international negotiations and he is recognized as being well versed in Pacific and Far Eastern affairs, having negotiated while secretary of state in 1908 the Root-Takahira agreement, which guarantees the "open door" principle in China.

It Isn't The Big Man Who Buys $40 Hats

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—Postmaster General Hays went looking for a fall hat today. He selected one and told the clerk he guessed it would do.

"What's the price of it?" Hays asked pulling out a ten dollar bill.

"Forty dollars plus war tax," the clerk replied without batting an eye. "It's imported beaver."

Hays went out wearing a $7.50 model.

DEPUTIES PREVENT NEW MINE ATTACKS

Illinois Towns Are Quiet With Adjutant General in Charge.

By Lore W. Miller
By United Press Leased Wire
Elizabethtown, Ill.—While Adjutant General Frank H. Dickinson was hearing witnesses here Saturday to get the facts in the Harlin county "mine war," armed deputies guarded the roads leading into Elizabethtown from the north to prevent any union miners from coming here to terrify.

I was able today to obtain something of the other side of the mine war but not without interference from the armed guards.

As I talked with Earl Pruitt, an Elizabethtown civilian, not connected with the union miners except as a sympathizer, Pruitt was approached by Sam Cottingham, leader of the armed deputies imported by the mine owners.

"If you send out any more reports to the north calling in the union coal miners, I will lock you up," said Cottingham to Pruitt.

"I have not sent for any one," answered Pruitt. "Anyone who says so is a liar."

Turning to me, Pruitt said: "That is what we are up against here. I am not a union miner; I am merely a private citizen who wants to see freedom under the law."

"I fought in France to make this country free from German bullying. I want to see my home community free from these gunmen."

Emboldened by the presence of Adjutant General Dickinson, union men ventured upon the streets of Elizabethtown for the first time in several days. None were armed; if they had been they would have been seized at once.

NAME DELEGATES TO IRISH PARLEY

By United Press Leased Wire
Dublin.—Sinn Fein will send Arthur Griffith, Prof. MacNeill, Ralph Barton and possibly one or two others as its delegation to Inverness to confer with the British cabinet's committee, it was learned on the best of authority here Saturday.

The Deaf has virtually decided to accept the invitation of Lloyd for the conference, despite extremists' objections to the condition that Ireland must remain within the empire.

The truce was further endangered today by the kidnapping of two constables at Bandon which followed the shooting of a civilian there last night.

"Come To Russia If You Want Job," Says Big Bill

Former I. W. W. Leader Has Novel Scheme to Make Wheels Go Around.

By John Grandenz
By United Press Leased Wire
Moscow.—Russia holds out the solution to the unemployment problem in the United States. American workers will find the social and industrial freedom they have sought all their lives over here today, "Big Bill" Haywood, I. W. W. leader told the United Press correspondent in an exclusive interview today.

"Here is the scheme I have been planning since I arrived in Moscow," Haywood said. "It's my idea to form, in certain prosperous parts of Russia, all manner of workmen's units, such as lumbermen, industrial workers, coal and metal miners, and so forth. They will form their own industrial administrations within the Russian state, exchanging with the government their production for tools and those daily necessities which they cannot produce themselves."

"I have planned these workers units at length, theoretically, now I've inaugurated my scheme practically."

"One hundred and sixty-eight American lumberjacks who recently arrived from Seattle found a basis for such work at Kuznetsky Basin, east of the Ural mountains. There they found several small colonies of miners living in two family flats, in houses which seemed palaces compared with the houses of coal miners in England and the United States."

"Those Seattle lumberjacks start next week. They're busy now completing their necessary outfits of warm clothing, tools and so forth, which the soviet government readily supplies."

"The lumber jacks will be pioneers, cutting the wood that is necessary for building houses before the arrival of their fellow workers. It will not be long before such communities reach the American standard of living. Their work will also influence the Russian workers and give them an idea of American 'pep.'"

"While there are nearly ten million unemployed in America and millions of others elsewhere, here's the opportunity for them to build the idealistic state they've been dreaming of and fighting for all their lives."

"From a political viewpoint, we ought to tell the workers to remain in America. The more unemployed the better."

"But as a friend of the workers I say to all my friends who are looking for real liberty 'come to Russia.'"

CLOUDBURST CAUSES DAMAGE OF MILLIONS

MOVIE ACTRESS IS FOUND DEAD AFTER PARTY AT HOTEL

Roscoe Arbuckle, Guest at Party, Aids Police to Clear Up Mystery.

By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco, Cal.—Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle telegraphed the police here Saturday that he would come to San Francisco to discuss with authorities the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, beautiful young movie actress.

The girl is alleged to have died soon after she was removed from the hotel here, following a party at which Arbuckle was a guest.

Police announced the whole affair would be thoroughly investigated. When this word was given out Arbuckle wired from Los Angeles that he would come here to assist the police to clear up the case.

The movie people who attended the party motored here from Los Angeles arriving last Sunday. They asked to have a photograph sent up to their suite.

On Monday afternoon, investigators were informed, one of the women telephoned the hotel manager saying Miss Rappe was hysterical.

Assistant Manager Boyle went upstairs. He told police he found Miss Rappe lying on a bed, partially clad. There were a number of bottles on the floor, he said. Men in the party told Boyle Miss Rappe had taken three drinks and then became hysterical.

Later she was removed to a hospital where she died of peritonitis and other intestinal trouble. The coroner has ordered her stomach examined.

DARING BANDITS STEAL U. S. MAIL

By United Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles, Calif.—Four bandits held up and robbed postoffice station C Fifth and Los Angeles streets, of thousands of dollars worth of registered mail and escaped in a shower of bullets in an automobile early Saturday.

Henry D. Hiteman, a bystander, was shot through the neck as the bandits' car turned into Sixth street and disappeared.

Eight clerks and letter carriers were held at bay by revolvers, while two of the bandits slashed open the mail sacks and seized bunches of registered letters.

J. F. Bonne, superintendent of the postoffice, declared the amount of the loot would not be known until a thorough check was made, but estimated it would run into the thousands.

DRIVE OUT SPECTATORS

Shortly before noon a "dead line" was being thrown about the entire inundated San Antonio district and it was hoped that with the driving out of thousands of spectators who thronged the wrecked area, an accurate survey of damage and loss of life will be possible. City officials have already started a survey of the damage and life toll and a conservative estimate is expected sometime this afternoon.

Meanwhile city and county authorities, working in cooperation with the military, are rushing food and tents to feed and shelter the thousands who were rendered homeless by the flood.

To add to the misery of the flood stricken city, all branches of public service are out of commission, the city being without water, lights, or telephone service.

To guard against a possible conflagration, city officials are bending their efforts to repairing wrecked water mains.

One grim feature of the tragedy is the fact that the rush of water came as a flash, without warning, or even expectation at an hour when the entire city, save the few all-night places of business, were asleep.

In some parts of the city the water rose as high as 12 and 15 feet.

Business streets inundated by the water included Houston, Commerce and St. Mary's.

TIENP ALMOST COMPLETE

The International and Great Northern tracks were washed out at several places following last night's cloudburst, according to reports received here.

Southern Pacific tracks, somewhat east and parallel with the Katy line in south central Texas, are still clear just before noon today, but are expected to go out shortly when the flood waters subside.

DRAFT KIMBERLY MEN FOR BATTLE

Menasha Wants to Give Overalls Real Licking Sunday in Opener.

Menasha — The Menasha baseball team will journey to Oshkosh on Sunday afternoon to play their first game in the post-season series of games. Menasha fans were very much disappointed at the failure of the two teams to meet last Sunday or Monday since they felt confident that with their present lineup Menasha could have defeated Oshkosh. Death will be in the best condition for Sunday's game and local fans feel certain that Menasha will gain a victory over the chesty squad with city aggregation and show them that Menasha could have done the same had the two teams clashed last week.

The Menasha lineup will be changed considerably on Sunday. Harry Sylvester, late manager of the Kimberly team, and who Menasha hopes to get to manage the local team next year will hold down the first sack, while Boots and Marty Lammers, also of Kimberly, ready to pick shortstop and right field respectively. The rest of the lineup will remain as before. With this lineup Stevenson will have to do his best on Sunday to stop the onslaught of the Menasha sluggers.

PLAN ROUTE FOR HOLSTEIN PARTY

Breeders of Purebred and Grade Holsteins to Visit Three Modern Farms.

Three foremost farms in the state have been chosen for inspection by Outagamie-on Holstein breeders when they take their second annual auto excursion next Friday, Sept. 16.

The auto party will first visit the Carl Erickbauer farm at Elkhart. Although a young breeder, Mr. Erickbauer has developed several Holsteins which produce annually 1,000 pounds of butter. This record is given significance by the fact that the average yield of butter for all cows in the United States is only 2250 pounds annually.

The second stop will be the Pinehurst farm at Sheboygan. This farm contains 1,000 acres, its buildings are ultra-modern and completely equipped and the fine big herd of Holsteins is under the management of Carl Juve. Picnic lunch, provided by the members of the party, will be eaten at this place.

On the return trip, a visit will be paid the farm of Emil Tittle at Plymouth. Mr. Tittle is one of the oldest breeders of Holsteins in Sheboygan-co. The Pinehurst farm which is the most distant of the three is only 57 miles away so the trip will not be fatiguing.

MOOSE LEADER MAY VISIT APPLETON

Membership Campaign Plans Will Be Announced at Lodge Meeting Tuesday.

Darius A. Brown, supreme dictator of the Moose and formerly mayor of Kansas City, may speak at a public meeting in Appleton this fall according to plans which will be announced at the regular meeting of Appleton Moose lodge next Tuesday evening.

Harry Glenn, head of the publicity department at Mooseheart is arranging the itinerary for Mr. Brown, whose appearance here will be to promote a membership campaign which is now being put on by every Moose lodge and every chapter of Women of Mooseheart-Legion.

The membership drive opened Sept. 1 and will end Thanksgiving day, Nov. 24. The aim of the organization is to secure 1,000,000 members before the opening of next year. Every lodge and chapter will initiate new classes. Thanksgiving week and these classes will be named in honor of James J. Davis United States secretary of labor and director general of the lodge. The success of the lodge and the fact that 1,044 orphan children are now being cared for at Mooseheart should recommend the order to a great many people, Mr. Glenn declares.

Foresight and Coal for Winter Days

Remember the coal shortage of two years ago—when the foresighted ones who had ordered their coal well in advance sat comfortably by their firesides while the unfortunate who delayed were imploring dealers for enough coal to take the chill from their homes?

There is no certainty that such a shortage will be duplicated in 1921. But the number of available freight cars shows a decline weekly and there is a greater proportion of idle cars in bad order than ever before. When crops and fall merchandise compete with coal for transportation facilities, a congestion may occur that will bring about days similar to those of 1919.

Unless you are going to winter in California this year, you will have to stock up sooner or later. Isn't it wise foresight to stock up now when you are sure of getting the coal you want? Phone us your order today and you may forget the coal situation for another year.

Public Stepping Lively To Attend "All Aboard"

Heavy Sale of Tickets Indicates Popularity of Legion Play.

There was an unusually large sale for both performances of "All Aboard," the musical comedy to be given by local talent under auspices of the American legion at Appleton theatre Monday and Tuesday nights. A few good seats still are available, however. Townspeople are enthusiastic about the performance. Members of the cast have sold many tickets since the first rehearsals gave promise of a splendid production.

Final rehearsals for the performances will take place Saturday night and Monday afternoon. The entire cast has taken on a professional air and is ready to give theatregoers the laugh of the season. The managers predict they will have to use a "show sold out," sign in the lobby both evenings.

COUNCIL TAKES HASTY ACTION
The city council's action in authorizing city officials to enter into a contract for building the Lawe street bridge came as a distinct surprise, and is considered in many circles as being unwise and impractical just at this time. That this action was hastily taken can hardly be denied inasmuch as council had already taken steps toward determining the most feasible and practical solution of the entire bridge problem. It had engaged a city planner to work with the city planning commission. He has been spending much of his time compiling a traffic census, and obtaining such other information as might assist the council in solving this important problem. The report of the planning commission will soon be in the hands of the council, and it seems to us inconsistent to take any definite action in entering into a contract for the construction of any bridges until that body had been heard from. Why a planning commission or expert city planner if their reports or recommendations are to be entirely ignored?

Then too, council had petitioned the State Highway department for a hearing to be held in this city to decide whether or not a bridge could be constructed with state and county aid. This hearing is scheduled for September 24th. Surely little delay would have been experienced in awaiting the decision of the highway department in this matter. Many new and interesting facts may be brought out in the report of the planning commission and the investigation of the highway department and it seems to us that the council should welcome all the information possible before definitely passing on this momentous proposition.

The building of bridges and their location in Appleton are matters which are intimately co-related and bear a prominent significance to one another. The Post-Crescent believes that a wise, practical city-wide bridge program can be worked out and when this most feasible solution is found, that the council should cooperate unanimously in carrying out the project. Letting contracts haphazardly and hastily is not going to obtain for Appleton the best possible bridge arrangement. The matter is too intricate for such a solution.

The Post-Crescent does not deny the need of a bridge at Lawe street. On the other hand we feel that by all means the manufacturing interests on the "Island" should have fire protection at all times and in all possible emergencies—that they should have easier access to all parts of the city—that pedestrians and mill workers should have an easier and shorter route to these mills, but we are not sure that a bridge costing nearly $60,000 is necessary to insure this added protection and convenience. We are not sure but what a low level bridge will answer almost as well as a high level bridge and we are told by responsible parties that such a bridge can be built for less than one-half the cost of the one contemplated. We believe that most of the manufacturers and others served will be satisfied with a low level bridge. We believe that city officials are justified in withholding final action in signing the contract until all possible information on the bridge problem can be obtained—until a complete bridge program can be worked out, and the approximate cost of the entire project is before the city council for consideration.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT UNGRATEFUL TO AMERICA

The American government may well take occasion to command the soviet bureaucrats to turn released prisoners over to an American Relief Expedition forthwith and to authorize this representative to provide them with passports and transportation so as to expedite their departure from Russia. According to Royal C. Kelly, who was interviewed on his arrival at Riga, only four Americans have obtained necessary visas, and soviet agents are throwing difficulties in the way of other released prisoners.

With the inquisitory and espionage system in operation in Russia, and the economic machinery breaking down rapidly, dependent Americans cannot be hurried out of that country too soon. Mr. Kelly declared that the power of the Cheka, which is the Bolshevik board of inquisition, has increased since the recent arrest of the Gorky famine committee. At Riga anti-soviets stated that the execution of sixty-one persons on accusations of plotting against the soviet government was partly designed to save the Cheka's authority.

The Cheka made much, too, of allegations that several of the persons who were executed had been supposedly agents of the American Intelligence service. Evidently, the inquisitorial body attempted to show off America to the soviets as an enemy to Russia, no doubt to counteract the moral and political effect of the merciful work of the relief expedition in serving American food, medicine and clothing to the impoverished and starving people.

The situation in Russia is replete with so many serious hazards that the American government should take peremptory action in behalf of Americans who are anxious to leave. Food is plentiful in Moscow, while American food is being supplied generously and impartially to fellow-countrymen of the communists. It is ingratitude for the well-fed soviets of Moscow to embarrass American prisoners, and contemptible trickery of the Cheka to agitate sentiment against the United States.

A policy of patience does not suit conditions. Secretary of State Hughes should see that Americans receive human treatment, and, if we can give relief to starving Russians, we can with consistency give relief to our own people who are in danger and seek to escape it. Our government must take any necessary step to have our citizens removed immediately from the sphere of soviet authority.

RETURN OF THE HORSE AND MULE

When the fashionable horse show, vying with the grand opera as a social function, faded suddenly into memory, the noble companion and servant of man seemed to become a slighted castaway. Though the horse had transported civilization to the farthest parts of the earth, and the world's commerce on land, and silently shared all the calamities and fortunes of mankind, he was neglected as soon as he ceased to be of the use he formerly was. A horse! there was a great conqueror who treated his like a prince: a potentate who lost his kingdom because he had none. A horse! Every well-to-do boy and girl used to have one as a pet, and playfully stroke and huckle its flowing mane. Women were wont to caress the animals at the show, and men to bet on them at the races, and farmers gloried in them at the state and county fairs. There were horses caparisoned in gold and silver harness, and living in stalled palaces. Horses helped to build the majestic cathedrals, the mute sphinx, the mysterious pyramids, the towering skyscrapers. They carried armies from end to end of the earth, won victories, and triumphantly paraded the trophies of conquest to the plaudits of the throngs. Wherever men went, they went uncomplainingly.

According to Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse association of America, the horse is on the way back to the farm and the city. He alludes to a Chicago retail store, which, after testing motor vehicles, is restoring the horses to its delivery service. Farmers in many localities, he says, have found horses to be cheaper and more serviceable than tractors and trucks for numerous uses. These are but a few of many instances he cites to show that the demand for horses, and likewise for mules, is becoming assertive again. In other words, the public carried away by fads is taking a sober second survey of the horse and is forming a new appreciation of him. There is no doubt whatever that horses and mules are better adapted than motors for many commercial and agricultural purposes, and that they are more economical. The horse show as a society event, may have passed away, never to be revived. But the horse himself will continue to perform his duty to man, and he promises to be more conspicuous hereafter than he has been for the past ten years, while he has been in comparative exile.

OLD DAN DRUFF.
Please inform me, asks a correspondent, whether there is any real honest-to-goodness cure for old dan druff. My hair is oily, which causes Dan to form in a sort of paste with large flakes clinging to the hair. I don't care how smelly the prescription is or how much trouble to apply. I'm desperate. I've already tried kerosene and mange cure, so-called. I shall appreciate your advice. (HIELEN C. C.)
Druff is practically impossible to cure, though generally it may be relieved, while the victim persists in the unhygienic custom of wearing headgear that excludes sunlight and air from the scalp. And very few of us can muster the moral courage to discard hats from our wardrobes.
The evidence seems to show that the disease condition which physicians call seborrhea (increased oil secretion) of the scalp is of bacterial origin. When the only secretion is thick and scaly, it is called seborrhea sicca or dandruff. Lassar, a noted European skin specialist, found that dandruff scales from the human head could be mixed with vaselin and rubbed into the back of a rabbit and the rabbit would develop seborrhea sicca. There is every reason to believe that dandruff is communicated from one person to another by the barber, the hair dresser, the common hair brush (which still prevails even in some modern hotels), and by the hat bands in hat stores where customers try on numerous offerings before selecting one. I feel that the barber is the chief offender, for not one of the better class of barbers among a hundred approaches aseptically or what our geomors or physicians understand as cleanliness in his handling of implements and customers.
It does not follow that because seborrhea sicca is of bacterial origin any alleged germicide or microbe killer will do any good. In fact no such remedy seems to be worth a hoot, in practice.
If a certain disagreeable odor and greasiness are not insuperable objections, the following formula massaged into about one fourth of the scalp each night for six nights, a shampoo the seventh night, and they repeat, for six weeks, will come as nearly curing dandruff as is humanly possible.
Salicylic acid ..... 20 grains
Precipitated sulphur ..... 1 dram
Petrolatum ..... 1 ounce
(Properly made this is impalpable, no particle can be felt in it. A very little suffices to apply with the finger tips, the hair being parted here and there to expose the scalp.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
WORMS.
I wish you would give a little talk on worms, just what the symptoms are and what to do and why.... I'm sure my little girl has them, she is so pale.... (Mrs. A. L. F.)
Answer—There are no symptoms. Paleness certainly does not warrant the suspicion. Give your little girl a 50-50 chance if her health seems impaired. Take her to your physician.
Two Leaks and a Plunge.
The doctor says I have two leaks in my heart. Please tell me if it is dangerous for me to go in swimming. (M. W.)
Answer—In a general way it is safe enough to go in swimming if you are able to take active exercise. You are young, I think. For your welfare it would be well to bear in mind that if there is any impairment of the heart function, only your own doctor, who examines you regularly, is in a position to advise whether rest, mild exercise or active exercise will benefit it, for the heart may call for absolute rest this month and some exercise next month, according to its condition, which undergoes change.

WHY GO TO COLLEGE?
I know a young Yale graduate in Philadelphia who is now convinced that a college education is a bar to wealth. "Girard" writes in the Philadelphia Press.
He is a clever electrician and got a job after leaving Yale which paid him $36 a week. In his new place he came in contact with an uneducated farmer who tried to persuade the college lad to "turn a day laborer and join the union."
He was assured that in a fortnight he could get $60 a week.
The young son of Eli stuck to his electrical job and when winning in Philadelphia a boss painter told him he could get double the $36 a week he was then getting if he took up the paint brush.
Do you wonder that this youth who holds his Yale sheepskin is puzzled in figuring out just how a college education pays him?
CANINE CURIOSITY.
The curiosity of the dog is pronounced if observed for a few minutes. It is quick to notice a strange dog or person and the value of the watchdog comes from the fact that it wants to investigate every noise. It is very interesting to watch a dog when it meets a beetle. At first he seems to be a little afraid of the tiny creature, but finally he can't resist any longer, so he plucks up enough courage to touch it with his paw. Then, realizing that it is not hurt him, he smells it and rolls it over and over with his nose. Then, after he has satisfied his curiosity, he walks away and leaves the beetle to go its way if he has not put it out of commission with the strenuousness of the investigation.
WELL, ISN'T CYNIC ABOUT RIGHT?
The expression, "poor but honest," wasn't coined by a cynic. A cynic would have said "and therefore" instead of "but."

Saving Educated Men
By Frederic J. Haskin
Washington, D. C.—How meals are served for as little as three cents to students in half a dozen European countries, that they may continue their studies, and so prevent the complete breakdown of higher education in Europe, is told in a report upon a year of activity by the World's Student Christian Federation. It is one of several organizations that are working to help university students in Europe.
The European universities were impoverished and depopulated by the war. Students and professors were killed and maimed. There was no money for textbooks or equipment. The greatest educational system the world has ever seen was threatened with ruin. Europe, with the greater part of its youth killed, has no adequate facilities to train what is left. The great problem is how to train the doctors, engineers and technicians generally, the teachers, lawyers and European civilization. Somehow European students must be kept alive and supplied with books, for the sake of the whole world. This is the work the Federation is doing. Rumor says that its work is soon to be extended to Russia, if the Bolshevik administration will permit.
The executive committee which is in charge of the European Student Relief program of the World's Student Christian Federation is composed of Dr. John R. Mort and Mr. David R. Porter of New York City, U. S. A.; Dr. Karl Fries of Geneva, Switzerland; Miss Ruth Rouse of London, England; and Dr. H. C. Rutgers of Hardenbrook, Holland.
A World Undertaking
The report points out that the assistance now being given to students throughout Central Europe, from Esthonia to Turkey, has been made possible by voluntary contributions from 26 countries, including such widely scattered states as Japan, Uruguay, Finland and Cuba. Students have been the principal agents in collecting funds, as well as themselves generous givers, in all the contributing nations. In England direct appeals to commercial firms have resulted in gifts of 75 tons of coal and several cartloads of biscuits for students' breakfasts.
In Norway and Sweden students have appealed from the churches and in this manner gathered collections running into thousands of francs. The results of "clothing raids" organized by Dutch undergraduates are now seen on the backs of penniless Austrian and Polish students, while during this summer vacation young Englishmen from Oxford University are collecting funds in Swiss and English resorts to enable this work in behalf of their fellow undergraduates to continue.
In cooperation with the American Relief Administration, whose funds for this work have been largely supplied by American college students, 70,000 students in 125 institutions of higher learning are being assisted by the Federation with money. Gifts of foodstuffs, assurances by the various governments and universities concerned, student cooperative self-help, and the high purchasing power of money of the victorious nations in Central Europe enables the cost of these meals to be kept at the almost incredibly low figure of little more than three cents apiece.
In addition to the feeding work, large supplies of clothing have been distributed by the Federation. 817 Austrian students having been outfit in a period of five weeks early this year. Another activity now being developed is the supply of necessary textbooks in places where not only student poverty, but that of the university itself prevents access to student libraries, and with a special reference books, each with a special bookplate indicating that it is the gift of the European Student Relief, have been presented to the Medical school at Cracow (Poland). Needy students at the University of Dorpat (Esthonia) have been furnished with 15 cases of textbooks which are serving as the basis of a permanent loan library. At the request of the Federation's representatives in Berlin publishers in that city have agreed to furnish books for Austrian universities at practically cost price, while free shipment has been offered by the German State Railways.

Among other forms of relief work among the students undertaken by the World's Student Christian Federation the following are cited as characteristic:
Some Work Done
Purchase and distribution of 264 tons of wood for student hostels in Vienna, to enable these hostels to have fire during the winter. Medical examination and treatment of sick students at a clinic especially established in Prague. At this clinic 205 students were examined during the first two weeks of operation, of whom 40 were found to be tubercular.
The care of tubercular students in sanatoria. In Poland 120 students are each receiving a month's care this summer in such institutions.
Management of special hostels in Budapest and Warsaw for homeless students. In Warsaw a dormitory with 110 beds has been equipped by the Federation.
Assistance to employment bureaus established by students themselves in order that those financially helpless may have as much opportunity as possible of obtaining part-time or vacation employment. Such employment bureaus are proving especially effective in Germany. The one in Prague has located 400 undergraduates in work which is enabling them to continue their education.
Reduction of university fees for particularly necessitous and worthy students, on the basis that if the various authorities will find a way to make this possible the Federation will see that assistance is given to those young men and women to enable them to keep up their studies.
In Budapest University students have been found sleeping in railway stations, and under bridges. In Vienna two students were found dead of starvation. In Germany educated men have been discovered working as street cleaners and women of refinement as charwomen, in order to obtain money to enable them to take their university degrees.
Pointing out that it is a rule of the World's Student Christian Federation to help only those who have done their utmost to help themselves, the report emphasizes the fact that the promotion of self-help is in itself inadequate even to approximate the need. Tuberculosis is a physical debility resulting from protracted hardships and undernourishment makes manual work before and after college hours extremely dangerous for many of the students. The method of self help, again, cannot be applied properly to meet the needs of most of the so-called "foreign students," in whose assistance the Federation is actively engaged. These foreign students, of whom thousands are now scattered over Central Europe, are one result of the reformation of the map of Europe and the Russian Revolution. There are Hungarians who have fled from provinces annexed to Roumania; Austrians who have fled from provinces annexed to Hungary; Germans from provinces annexed to Poland; Georgians cut off from home by the Soviet occupation of their country, and everywhere Russian student refugees. These men and women were friendly, homeless and in many cases were progressively drifting nearer starvation until the organizations of relief work in their behalf. Should this relief work be discontinued now they would very shortly be in as bad condition as ever.
The significance of the work is illustrated by quoting a letter from Dr. Friedrich Hertz, of the Austrian Department of State:
"Thousands of young people are being saved through your work from extreme misery which otherwise would probably break their mental and moral energy," he writes. "If they succumb, this would mean the disappearance of forces indispensable for any reconstruction in our country. It would lead to a tremendous breakdown of culture and civilization in Austria which would react on other countries."

Furs and Mystery BY A. Carstensen

Natural Fur Seal, and there is only one species though found in various places, is a rare animal whose fur is of such quality and beauty that the meager supply cannot begin to fill the demand.

It is not surprising, therefore, that a variety of substitutes have been produced to serve in Nature's stead,—some good, some bad, many quite indifferent.

Right here is where we do not want to get out of step—good substitutes, when sold honestly as such, are not by any means to be condemned, especially when the genuine article, because of its scarcity, is beyond the financial reach of many who would enjoy it.

It is the common practice of unreliable fur dealers, however, to mislead the public by a number of high sounding so-called "Trade Names," which have no place in legitimate business. In this article and the series that will follow, the writer shall turn the light of truth into many dark and mysterious corners.

"Hudson Seal," "Near Seal," "Electric Seal," "Baltic Seal," "French Seal" and similar "species," are in no sense seal. Each is the skin of some other animal from which, like seal itself, the coarse hairs have been extracted by machinery. Skillful dyeing completes the imitation, which in some instances can scarcely be detected from the genuine.

Of all substitutes, the so-called "Hudson Seal" excels. In reality it is muskrat, which is a very good fur in itself and may creditably be sold as a fine seal imitation, provided it is sold as an imitation and NOT as a species of seal, presumably from the vicinity of Hudson Bay.

"French Seal" and "Baltic Seal" are disguising titles for seal-dyed coyote, a small animal that is found in France. As a skin, coyote does not rank as high as muskrat, but that does not necessarily prevent its being used as an imitation of seal at its proper price level, provided again it is sold as seal-dyed coyote and NOT as a foreign species of genuine seal.

Adventures of the Twins

Oliver Reberis Barton

CHRIS CROWS ESCAPE
Well, sir, when Fleet Fox grabbed Chris Crow in the fog, thinking that it was Biddy Bantam, you'd have thought that all the noise in the world was let loose. Chris was like most bullies, an awful fraidy-cat, and he shrieked and screamed and squealed and called until even Mr. Moon heard him.

Cutie Cottontail over in the sassa-patch garden nibbling lettuce and sweet juicy leaves just sprouted, picked up his ears, and his feet, and scooted.

Biddy Bantam, who had just located her haystack that very minute, dived into it head first without a backward look.

Nancy and Nick and Sprinkle-Blow, hidden near the swamp, shivered. Chris never would have made his fortune in grand opera even when his voice was at its best, but when he was scared, a boiler factory wasn't in it. Fleet had him by the foot, and no matter how he struggled and pulled and twisted, there he was caught in the jaws as strong as a steel trap.

"I'm done for," thought Chris. "It isn't fair sneaking up on a person like that from behind. He ought to be punished."

Sprinkle-Blow heard him. "If Chris would only remember the golden rule a little better and do as he would be done by, I'd let him go," he whispered. "Maybe I'd better do it, anyway. He's had a lesson."

Fleet had discovered his mistake by this time, but he always believed that a crow in the mouth is worth two hens in a haystack, so he held on and started for home.

Sprinkle-Blow and the Twins shoved a big stone in his path. In the fog

Fleet didn't see it and went sprawling and let go his hold on Chris. Chris flopped away, bruised and sore and cross, to his home in the woods.

Can Some Pumpkin

Pumpkins keep in the cellar for several months, but as the jars of fruit or vegetables are used why not refill the cans with pumpkin? Pumpkin cans satisfactorily.

Like most other vegetables, pumpkin is canned by the cold pack or open kettle method.

Cold Pack
Cut pumpkin in strips easy to hold. Remove seeds and peel. Cut in cubes and put in cheesecloth. Dip in boiling water for ten minutes. Dip in cold water. Pack in sterilized jars, add 1 teaspoonful of salt to each quart jar, fill with boiling water and half seal. Put in boiler of boiling water. The water should cover the jars by at least two inches. Cover and boil for two hours, counting the time after the bubbling begins. Remove from boiler, finish sealing and cool quickly. If the pumpkins have any soft spots in them, cut the spots carefully out, being very sure that every bit of softness is removed.

Open Kettle Method
Peel and remove seeds from pumpkin. Cut in cubes and steam or boil until tender. Add salt in the proportion of 1 teaspoonful to each quart of pumpkin. Mash and let bubble, stirring constantly. Pack in hot sterilized jars and seal immediately. If the pumpkin is very dry the jars should be half sealed and sterilized an hour as in the cold pack method. A jar will hold almost twice as much mashed pumpkin as it will cubed pumpkin and the mashed pumpkin is ready for pies.

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright 1920)

Beauty Bankrupt
Never did I expect to see another girl as lovely as Katherine Miller. I thought, as I stood by her coffin. She had bewitched many men; she had nearly destroyed my home.

Never again would I behold so beautiful a woman, but I would see many who imitated her methods in love, women unscrupulous in love, women who cheated in love, and somehow justified their conduct. I had known many and I would know more pretty girls who infringed on the rights of wives willfully and without regret.

Well, Katherine had been more fortunate than most of them. She had been spared the penalty of growing old. By dying, she had defeated old age which by robbing her of her beauty would have robbed her of her power over men.

But from most of the trespassers in love, girls who have no sense of the wife's rights, girls who never think at all about the other woman—from them old age would exact its bitter penalty.

The days of a woman's age are long and the days of her youth are very short, and she who gambles all on her beauty goes bankrupt for most of her life.

One cannot excuse all of the trespassers, the girls who flit with married men, the girls who refuse to admit that a wife has rights which must be respected, the girls who ignore a man's children as well as his wife—one cannot excuse all of them on the ground that they lack brains.

Some of them are clever enough to earn fine salaries in the business world—but they smugly refuse to apply their intelligence to ethics and morality.

Time makes the trespassers pay. In them are no resources for meeting old age in dignity, and peace. Robbed by time of the flattery and admiration of men, they would nag, and fret their days away.

Yes, Katherine, in her coffin was more fortunate than they. The funeral left me exhausted. But Chris had to be guarded, and so I resumed my nightly vigil by her bed.

Jordan Spence asked me many questions, and confided an odd theory to me. He believed that Chris' trance had been induced by fear. But her fear was not of the man who had started her in the cellar. It was a deeper dread.

I had told Spence of the summons Coriols had sent her. She was to bring the royal gems to Berlin, was to confer with a banker there, was to arrange with him for bribing the Russian communists who had imprisoned him.

"Perhaps her sleep—her trance—is her shield—her refuge," Spence explained.

WOMAN SICK FOUR YEARS

Was Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Steens, Miss.—"I was all run down and nervous with female trouble and my sides pained me so at times that I could hardly walk. I suffered for four years with it. Then I saw your advertisement in the papers and I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel stronger and am able to do most of my housework now. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may use this letter if you care to do so."—Mrs. W. H. BLAKE, Route 1, Steens, Miss.

How many women, overworked, tired and ailing, keep up the ceaseless treadmill of their daily duties until they are afflicted with female troubles as Mrs. Blake was, and are run down, weak and nervous. But every such woman should be convinced by the many letters like hers which we are constantly publishing, proving beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will overcome such troubles, and write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., in regard to their health.

HEMB UNDER GUARD TO FOIL KIDNAPING

Sheboygan Citizens Reported
Over Imprisonment of Kidnaped Girl.

Sheboygan Rural communities in the neighborhood of Sheboygan were being combed Friday afternoon for the kidnaper who spirited away 15 year old Mildred Hemb from the home for the friendless here last week and took her to the residence of her foster father where she was chained to a wall for five days.

Authorities have a detailed description of the man, given them Friday morning by the Hemb girl, who was questioned for several hours. Although county officials working on the case declined to reveal what the next step would be, it is reported that several arrests are in prospect.

Father Guarded.
Peter Hemb, 37 years old, the foster father of Mildred, is being closely guarded in his cell in the county jail to prevent a possible attempt of incensed citizens to harm him. Feeling is running high here and every precaution has been taken to block what is feared may be a move to kidnap the father.

A note written by Mildred while she was being held a captive in the attic of what had once been her home, found on Thursday, disclosed a desperate effort to obtain freedom.

The letter had been intercepted and torn to bits.

Appeals for Help.

It was placed together by detectives Thursday night after they made a second raid at the Hemb home.

The note follows:
"This is Mildred Hemb writing. Would you please send an officer to my father's home for he is trying to keep me here in the house until his trial is over, and he thinks that if I am not there, that he is going to be free. He just hates to go to prison. I have been at his house ever since Monday night."

"I was put in the attic and I think that I will be there when the officer comes. So please send one up here. The reason I can write is that he told me I should write you that I ended my life. I said I would, but this is what came to my mind."

"He said that he will maybe send me to Mead, Wis., and that I can stay there until he is free, and then he will move out there to live. But I don't want to live with him."

"Hoping that you get this and that you will send an officer up here, I remain, Mildred Hemb."

NATIONAL MIND OF U. S. CANNOT TELL EUROPEAN PULSE

International Contact Would Reveal Restoration of Thrift in Europe.

By Col. Edward M. House
Copyright by Post Pub. Co.

In some ways it is easier to foretell the political situation of Europe than it is to foretell the industrial and financial situation. Politics move along certain well-defined lines and are governed by conditions the existence or non-existence of which is easy to recognize.

This is also true of the economic trend of affairs but to a much more uncertain degree. The forecasts made by statesmen and men interested in public affairs concerning political affairs of the near future are more nearly in agreement than the forecasts made by bankers, business men and economists concerning the future of finance and industry.

See No Prosperity
One may find some of the wisest and best informed of the latter group predicting general bankruptcy thru-out Europe before a permanent improvement comes about. They believe that none of the national monetary units will return to its pre-war value unless, indeed, it is the pound sterling. The French paper franc, they predict, will be stabilized at some point between ten and fourteen to a dollar and the German mark will, at some time, be stabilized at a point between twenty-five and a hundred marks to a dollar. In other continental countries the point of stabilization will be in like proportion. In order to carry on foreign trade a gold franc and a gold mark must be used and these will hold their old values of approximately five and four to the dollar. As for Germany paying her reparations obligations, that is considered impossible. The present era of inflation will last in the opinion of this pessimistic group for some time but eventually it must collapse and from the ruin will arise a new structure which will carry on until another such war topples it over.

A Broader Group
Fortunately there is a larger group equally learned in finance and economics, as well as in the ways of men, which thinks that, given time and reasonable opportunities, the financial and industrial world will right itself. This group makes no predictions as to the final stabilization of the franc, mark, kronen or lira, but it believes that means will be found in the several countries to bring order out of the present day chaos. It will not admit that there will be any repudiation of foreign obligations, although there may be a scaling down of domestic debts. It is probable that the final outcome will be somewhere between the two opinions.

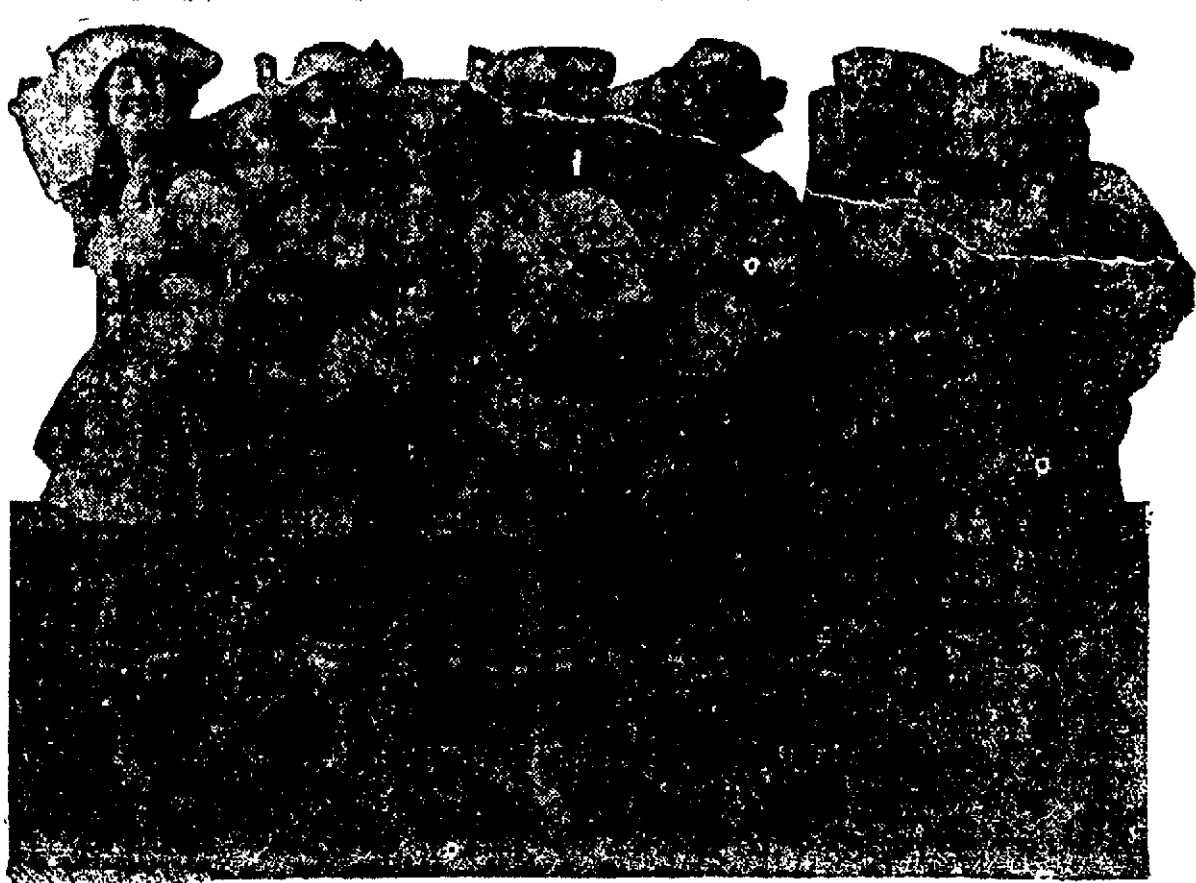

France Getting Stride
Germany was undoubtedly from her present financial ruin. Just what steps she will take no one knows. She does not yet know herself but her statesmen, financiers and economists are working hard to evolve some feasible plan. Meanwhile, her citizens are working with something like their old-time energy and this in itself will soon carry her back to the high pre-war level.

Russia is the most disturbing factor in both the political and economic world. She is too big, too potent to be ignored, much as some desire to do so. Germany, her largest and most intelligent neighbor, understands this better than others. Until some order is brought about there, central Europe cannot altogether prosper. The English know this almost as well as the Germans do, for their trade tentacles touch every corner of the globe and are sensitive to economic disturbances.

The English and German financial world would like to grapple with the Russian problem and facilitate the return of something like stable conditions, but no encouragement comes from the United States and but little from France, for neither is in intimate touch with Russia. France having lost it since the war.

The United States lacks more than any of the great powers the international mind. Its development has been very slow with us, considering our recent activities in world affairs. When our industrial difficulties grow more acute our wits will become sharpened and we will awaken to the necessity of taking a more active part in world affairs. On the other hand the English have the international mind developed to a degree unequalled by any other nation. They think in international terms as we think in national terms. There is no outlying corner of the earth unknown to their people. If questions relating to remote parts of the globe come up for governmental consideration or public discussion, there are at hand many who know those parts, be they where they may, as we know the distant states of the Union. The press here upon their staffs men conversant with all such regions who are able to write of them in an intelligent way and readers are found in plenty eager for the information given.

Europe Regaining Prosperity
Our people as yet see but little connection between this interest in knowledge of international affairs and the expansion of our commerce and a betterment of our industrial condition. And until they do, we must continue to work at a disadvantage with our competitors.

ROUTE TRAFFIC TO AVOID CROWDING, PLANNER ADVISES

Increase in Automobile Ownership Gives City a Serious Problem.

An arterial street system is recommended by City Planner Leonard S. Smith as the only practical method of alleviating congestion on Oneida and Appleton-sts. in his report on the traffic situation, a census of which has just been completed.

Proper traffic regulations and the adoption of an arterial system, Mr. Smith believes would remedy the loss of trade which the stores along the congested streets are now experiencing. He places the blame for congestion on the lack of north and south streets more than 60 feet wide east of Jones park but declares that this condition cannot be remedied until a site is selected for a new bridge over the Fox River.

Outstanding features of the traffic census report are: 147 vehicles passed along College-ave. at Appleton-st. in a single hour between 7 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock in the evening; July 26; 396 vehicles passed along College-ave. at Oneida-st. in one hour in the same period of the following day; 315 vehicles passed along Appleton-st. at College-ave. in one hour on July 27; 363 vehicles passed the intersection at Water and Pearl-sts. in one hour on July 30; 300 vehicles crossed Lake-st. bridge in one hour, July 26.

Total traffic in one day, was as follows: Lake-st. bridge, July 26, 2,877 vehicles, and 807 pedestrians; July 29, 2,348 vehicles and 858 pedestrians; Water and Pearl-sts., July 30, 2,607 vehicles; Foster-st., 1,264 vehicles on July 30 and 1,558 vehicles on Aug. 28; Appleton-st. and College-ave., July 27, 2,854 vehicles; College-ave. and Appleton-st., July 26, 3,874 vehicles.

Census also were taken on the concrete road north of Riverside cemetery and on the Kimberly-rd. south of the river. The traffic on Pearl-st. was also shown to be heavy with a maximum of 424 vehicles per hour or 2,677 between 7 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock in the evening, Aug. 5.

The report ascribes the tremendous growth in traffic to a 40 per cent gain during the last year in the number of automobiles owned here. The number of automobiles owned in the city now is 1,600 compared with 1,133 last year. The report declares in part:

"In addition to sharing the phenomenal traffic growth shown by the entire state during the past decade, Appleton has had the additional increment of traffic due to its strategic position in the valley of the lower Fox River. This traffic growth is of course due to the recent substitution of motor for horse traffic. If the number of motor vehicles should continue to increase at the same rate for even four years, our citizens would own 6,146 vehicles and the yearly increase in number would exceed the total number now in the city. It is not expected that such a gain can be maintained, but even if it falls far behind present rates of increase, the congestion of traffic is certain to greatly increase in volume and danger. The streets of Appleton must accommodate not only local vehicles, but also the increasing number belonging to the adjacent farming community as well as to visiting tourists."

getting back to pre-war efficiency. The national finances of the late belligerent countries are in bad condition, but their industrial condition steadily improves. It is said that there are more people out of employment in the United States than in all Europe outside of Russia. The flat money under which these late belligerent countries are operating is thought by many economists to be a not unmixt evil. Germany, for instance, could not carry on if the mark materially appreciated.

The industrial life of the United States is beginning to feel the impulse of the changed conditions in Europe and it is to be hoped that Washington is giving serious thought to our foreign trade at this critical moment.

Most of the other orders are from Ohio.

HORTONVILLE TO HAVE NEW CONCRETE BRIDGE

Plans for the new concrete bridge in the village of Hortonville which is to supersede the old picturesque stone arch structure have been received by A. G. ## H. S. INCREASE IN ENROLMENT IS 178

Eight hundred sixty-five young people are now enrolled in Appleton high school and are seeking higher education. On the same day last year the enrollment was 687. The increase is 178, almost three times the increase in any other year.

There is plenty of room in the high school building as far as classrooms are concerned but during assembly periods when the students all gather in the main room there is a shortage of about 60 seats. The gymnasium also is very much too small to accommodate the classes which hold meetings there.

Mrs. Leonard Schliets has returned from a visit with friends at Marshfield.

Turn on the Light

Owls see better in the dark than they do in daylight. So do bats and one or two other freaks of animal life. But human beings do not.

Yet, it is peculiar how some of us persist in remaining in the dark on the very things that concern us most.

For instance: now more than ever before, we ought to see that every cent we spend buys its full quota of value. Yet, lots and lots of folks go blithely along making their everyday purchases with their eyes shut tight.

And it's so easy to be sure you're right.

Spend a few minutes a day running through the advertisements in this newspaper. Then buy the products that have proved up under the spotlight of consistent publicity.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise invite the inspection of thousands of eyes.

Here in the advertising columns you see products that have made good before the critical audience of buyers. These products are full value products. They return you dollar for dollar.

Buy them. Read the advertisements and buy the advertised products.

Then you can know you're spending your money wisely

BRANDTS TO TEST RUEPING ABILITY IN SUNDAY'S GAME

Overalls See Pockets Bulging Already With Post-season Purse.

The Overalls have got it into their heads that they will be hailed as state champions as well as Fox River valley league champs after the post-season series of games between Appleton, Oshkosh, Menasha and Fond du Lac is played off according to a letter received Wednesday from Stockbauer.

On the other hand, the Ruepings are predicting that the valley leagues will have to stop leveling than they are during the season if they want to keep Fond du Lac under the lid. On the whole, fans can be assured that the baseball to be played in the series will top off anything in rivalry and hard playing that ever was pulled off in these cities before.

Nothing remains now for the Brandts except to defeat Fondy when they show up at Brandt park Sunday afternoon and judging from the Rueping record it will be some excitement. Fond du Lac is the dark horse in the quietest and its strength can only be determined by comparison. According to a letter received from its manager the team has defeated practically every independent nine in this section. The Ruepings played some lively games of 11 innings and once they lost a battle of 12 rounds.

Fondy's lineup for Sunday will be: J. Farns, 2b; McLaughlin, ss; Sener, al; J. Smith or Spence, c; Rohman, 1b; L. Farns, rf; Dufrane, 3b; Cain or Parker, cf; Len, Merz, 3b; Cain or Drohan, p.

70 KICK H. S. PIGSKIN AROUND LOT FIRST DAY

Nearly 70 boys turned out for the first high school football practice Thursday after school. Coach Vincent will cut off a score or more of candidates because it will be impossible to handle them all.

Not more than 45 were expected to report Friday evening when real business-like practice began. There is a shortage of equipment which will keep many of the fellows from turning out.

FONDY TROTTERING MARE BREAKS STATE RECORD

Fond du Lac—Maggie Riser, Fond du Lac's sensational trotting mare, owned by T. T. O'Brien, broke the state trotting record for a half mile track at the county fair Thursday afternoon when she negotiated a mile in 2:10 1/4 in a trial against her local track record of 2:13 1/4.

Probably the outstanding game of the 1921 collegiate football season will be played Oct. 22 between Chicago and Princeton on the Tigers field. It is the first time in a number of years that one of the leading conference teams has been looked for a game with one of the "Big Three" in the East. The Maroons will have to show a lot of class in this game because Princeton has many veterans of last year's championship aggregation back in uniform.

Marshall boasts of a super hurler. Claude Noel is his name and two no hit no runs games are credited to him.

They Still Are Stars

RIGHT LIVING AND RIGHT PLAYING KEEPS THEM AT THE TOP.

By Dean Snyder

The years have slipped off the backs of some of our brightest major league stars unnoticed.

Stars of yesterdays—10 or 15 years ago—they are stars still.

What is their secret? How do they do it? Is it genius?

They have courted the fountain of youth—all of them.

Normal living has been their routine. Skipping the gay of the prime rose path, they have stayed in the middle of the wholesome road.

Some of them have gray hairs, a few are slightly bald, but their nerves tick or as steadily as well-timed clocks.

Always they have tried their level best in every game.

And in all of them there is the spark of greatness.

They have saved their money, invested it wisely. Most of them have families. Men of their type succeed in any business they undertake.

And here they are:

Babe Adams, Pittsburgh Pirates, 35, leading National League pitchers. Thirteen years in majors, 9 in minors.

Frank Baker, New York Yankee third baseman, 35. Eleven years in majors, 2 in minors.

Ty Cobb, manager and centerfielder of Detroit Tigers, 35. With Detroit 17 seasons, 3 in minors.

Larry Gardner, Cleveland Indian third baseman, 35. Thirteen years in majors, one in minors.

Eddie Collins, Chicago White Sox second baseman, 34. Sixteen years in majors, never in minors.

Walter Johnson, the Washington smoke-ball king, 34. Fifteen years in majors, 3 in minors.

Grover Alexander, Chicago Cub pitcher, 34. Eleven years in majors, 4 in minors.

Tris Speaker, manager and centerfielder of the Cleveland Indians, 33. Fourteen years in majors, 3 in minors.

Urban Faber at 33 is having his greatest pitching year with the White Sox.

Other veterans slowed up but still good players: Jack Quinn, 36. Ed Konetchy, 36. Ivan Olson, 36. Bill Killefer, 35. Harry Hooper, 34. Walter Schmidt, 34. Don Bush, 33. Clarence Walker, 33. Zack Wheat, 33. Ray Caldwell, 33. Joe Wood, 32. Jim Bagby, 32. Rube Marquard, 32.

And of the younger supers: Rogers Hornsby, 25. Babe Ruth, 27. Harry Heilmann, 27. George Sisler, 28. How long will they last?

He says that Faber did not make the mistake of other spitball pitchers by becoming dependent entirely on the moist delivery.

The White Sox Star nursed his curves and inshoots along with his spitters.

Faber uses his spitter only in the punches.

Faber has a baseball noodle as well as a spitball arm.

They called out the cops to protect Dempsey in New York the other day. Crowds always looking for Jack.

First Piker Hound. "I got in a game with a denest the other night."

Second Piker Hound. "How'd it come out?"

First Hound. "Lost my roll. 'Twas too easy for him to draw and fill."

LOOKS LIKE WORLD SERIES IN GOTHAM

Giants Appear to Have Edge on Pirates—Yanks Shaping Up Nicely.

By United Press Leased Wire Philadelphia, Pa.—With the Giants and the Pirates practically tied for first place in the National league and the Yankees increasing their lead over the Indians in the American league it begins to appear that there will be no traveling during the 1921 world's series.

Yesterday's games meant more than a victory and a defeat for the Giants and Pirates. Brooklyn has been a tartar all year to the Giants and when McGraw's men can take the Flatbush hurdles it means that the Stoneham team is playing ball. On the other hand when the Pirates, with one of their aces, Cooper, in the box, fell before the Cubs, a club that has been used as a football by all the other clubs in the last two weeks, it is nothing for Pittsburgh to get elated over.

The Tanks are getting the full effects of their murderous row and the pitchers are in great shape. When Harry Harper, the only south paw on the roster, who has been on the bench all season, becomes a winning pitcher, Huggins can almost count the rag in his pocket. Harper may turn out to be another Mails who hopped in the breach last year for Cleveland and won the pennant.

Watching The Scoreboard

Yesterday's hero: Babe Ruth hit his 51th homer and tied his 1920 record, helping the Yanks trounce the Athletics, 14 to 5. Tilly Walker made two four-base raps and Pipp made one. Scott blanked the Phils with two hits, the Braves winning 2 to 0. Not a Phil got farther than first base.

Putting by Irish Meusel and George Burns aided the Giants in beating the Robins, 6 to 2, and put them within a fraction of a point of the Pirates.

Rennhart's homer with two on tied the score in the third inning but the Cubs got on Lefty Cooper and the Pirates lost.

Chicago and Detroit made a new American league record for runs and hits when the Sox beat the Tigers 20 to 15. Forty-two hits were made by both clubs.
